sible under the circumstances. Not only is the work one of the greatest difficulty, but it is almost valueless from a samilary point of view, the storms undoing it soon after it is accomplished.

The care of the wounded has taxed the hospitals to the utimost. One correspondent says that 12,000 wounded had passed through the Mukden hospitals up to Sunday, and only the most severe cases could be attended to by the nurses and surgeons. Many therefore had to be left to the rough, but well-meant care of their comrades.

RUSSIAN ARMY DIVIDED.

Meyendorff Holding Kuroki in Check South of Mukden-One Column in Bad Straits.

LONDON, September 10,-The Daily Ex-LONDON, September 10,—The Dany Express claims to have trustworthy information that the Russian army is divided into five columns. The first has reached Tie Pass (forty miles north of Mukden) and is preparing to defend that place against the Japanese. The second is midway between Mukden and Tie Pass. The bird is at Mukden. The fourth, consist. third is at Mukden. The fourth, consisting of forty thousand men, under General Meyendorff, is holding General Kurcki in check by hard fighting twelve miles south of Mukden. The fifth, of about twelve thousand men, is further south, exhausted by incessant fighting and is surrounded on three sides by the Japanese, its position being one of extreme danger from which it can hardly home to except.

"Everything now depends," says the Everything now depends," says the paper, "on Meyendorff's ability to held Turnki in check, which he so far has been successfully doing."

Dismal Spectacle.

Dismal Spectacle.

The Times has received a dispatch dated at Pekin from a correspondent lately with General Oku's army, which says: "Liao Yang at sunrise on September 4th presented a dismal spectacle. The Russian settlement was burning and everning with a pall of smoke. The scared Chinese were in hiding and the dead-bent Japanese bivonacking in the suburbs. Not a shot was fired inside the barricade that day and not a Russian left except a few deserters directly as Chinese.

"The town was not greatly damaged by the shell fire, but all the European shops and the wealthy Chinese verifications had been sacked by the Tenth Siberian Rifles. Over fifty Chinese were killed by the Japanese shell fire.

"The Japanese spoils of war were insignificant. They got no locomotives, which they urgently need and which would have been more valuable to them than artillery.

"The Japanese divisional communder attempted to pursue the Russians and

"The Japanese divisional communer, attempted to pursue the Russians and managed to secure a bridge, but his troops were too fatigued to effect anything. I cannot give details of the fighting north of Liao Yang, because I have to leave immediately for China to send an account of the great battle."

HAVE WON RACE.

Advance of Russian Army Now at Tieling, Where Bloody Battle May Occur.

(Special Cable to The Times-Dupatch, Copyright, 1904.)
(By Paul Lambeth.)
LONDON. Sept. 8.—Russia seems to have won the race to Tieling, her advance guard being reported to have reached there by dispatches received to-day. This is taken to mean that there will be a battle perhaps as bloody and more decisive than that recently fought at Like Yang, at the northerh position. In view of the reality brilliant work of Kuropatkin in bringing off his army with so little of men and morale after so crush-a defeat as it experienced at Liac ing a defeat as it experienced at Liao Yang, British experts are inclined to take the announcement from St. Petersburg that the army is to be divided, with Idnevitch and Kasibars in command of the two armies, under Kuropatkin, as commander-in-chief, at its face. They lioid that it would be suicidal for Russia to supersede Kuropatkin at this time. The fate of the Rugsian army now rests with General Meyendryff, who commands the rear guard, consisting of 50,000 men. If he is able to hold his forces intact against the constant hammering of Noticular Styleions, the retreat to Tienng will stantly, and according to late advices are in a position to close in whenever the psychological moment arrives.

The official announcement that the Japanese lave buried more than 3,600 Russian dead, and that nearly 13,900 wounded had been cared for in the Russian field hospitals from August 30th to September 4th, gives some idea of the fearful losses sustained by the Russian army. It is regarded as certain that from the beginning of the fighting to now they have been pretty close to 30,000 men. While the Japanese losses have not yet been announced, they have been fully as large and probably considerably larger. It is not believed that there will be anything like unother general engagement for at least two weeks.

Fearful Loss at Liao Yang. Sept. 7, via Pekin, Sept. 9.-A correhas just returned to Multden with the Russian rear guard, after having accompanied the army the whole time since the battle of Liao Yang, says the Josses on both sides were enormous. As a moderate estimate, he places them at fifty thousand. He confirms the reports that the fighting at Liao Yang recalled in ficreeness the sanguinary battles of the American Civil War. General Kuroki's flank movement east of the Russian position precipitated the retreat from Liao Yang. When the Russians left Liao Yang, the town was strewn with corpses of the sign. San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 2.—Forties fres are doing great damage in several sections of California. In Alameda and Contra Costa counties thousands of acres of lands have been swept by flames and many houses have been destroyed, the loss reaching $100,000. In Marin county fires have hurned over the slopes of Mount Tamalpais, and now threaten the Mount Tamalpais Scenic Railway and tomber in the adjacent canyons. The big basin State park, in Santa Cruz and Santa Clara counties, which contains some of the largest and finest redwood frees in the State, seems doomed to destruction, though hundreds of men are fighting the fires.
